Good afternoon,

The Senate will next convene on March 17, as members will be attending the Federal Advocacy Academy in Washington, D.C., from February 28 through March 4. Following this engagement, we will also be participating in Club Rush activities, which will impact our regular meeting schedule.

At this time, I am unable to confirm the Executive Board's meeting schedule, though it is anticipated that it may follow a similar timeline as the Senate.

The Supreme Court falls under the authority of the President. Currently, all Associate Justices have resigned, citing concerns that their perspectives and voices were not being adequately heard by the Court and executive leadership. Due to her not having regular meeting, I cannot say when she'll have one.

*With gratitude,
Latiesha Williams
ASRCC Vice President / Law Ambassador*

Subject: Upcoming public meeting schedule

Good afternoon,

This is Aaron Friesen, news reporter for Viewpoints.

I'm trying to put together schedule for the next public ASRCC meetings you are holding so I can publish it on viewpoints online, but I need your help.

Would you be able to tell me when the next regularly scheduled executive, senate and Supreme Court meetings are?

Thanks for your time,

Aaron Friesen
